

The Daily Courant.

Friday, November 21. 1707.

Vienna, October 29.

IT was resolv'd in a great Council held at this Court the 20th Instant, to make good all Articles of the Treaty between the Emperor and the Duke of Savoy, that remain'd to be satisfied. The following Memorial of M. de Mellaredé, Minister of Savoy, who came hither some time ago, to solicit this Affair, shews what those Articles of the said Treaty were that remain'd to be perform'd.

A Memorial, to prove that the Execution of the Treaty with his Royal Highness, ought not to be retarded for any of the Reasons which have been alledg'd to justify that Delay.

1. HIS Imperial Majesty has by the 6th Article of the Treaty of the 8th of November 1703, yielded and made over to his Royal Highness that Part of the Montferrat of which the Dukes of Mantua had the Investiture, and by the 11th Article oblig'd himself to give him the full and actual Possession thereof, as well as of other Territories which were to be yielded to him as fast as they should be reduc'd.

2. His Royal Highness demands, in Consequence of the said Treaty, to be put into actual and full Possession of the said Part of the Montferrat; and because 'tis necessary previously to publish the Ban against the Duke of Mantua, his Royal Highness insists that the said Ban be published; which depends solely on the Emperor, seeing the Electors whose Concurrence it was thought proper to ask, have all given their Consent; which alone is all at most that the Emperor believ'd he ought to procure, that of the College of Princes being not at all necessary. There is no Want of Instances and Authorities to prove, that the Duke of Mantua being neither a Member, nor a State of the Empire, but only a Vassal, the Emperor can by his sole Authority put him under the Ban of the Empire. The Peace of Osnabrug, which regulates in what Cases the Electors, Princes, and States of the Empire, ought to concur, with their Suffrages or with their Consent, in the Deliberations, makes no Mention of the Ban against the Vassals of the Empire; but only provides, that the first Diet should settle the Manner and Order requisite to be observ'd, in putting one or more States under the Ban; Now the Duke of Mantua not being a State of the Empire, but only a Vassal of it, the College of Princes cannot in his Case pretend to a Right to give their Consent to the publication of the Ban against him, by Virtue of the Tenour of the said Peace.

3. The said Princes and States have, in Fact, never claim'd a Right to give their Consent, but when it concern'd a State or a City of the Empire that had Session in a Circle, and that then the Execution of the Ban should be in that Circle wherein they had Session. 'Tis in this Manner they explain'd themselves in the Remarks they made in 1663, on the 28th Article of the Leopoldine Capitulation; which clearly prove that they made no Pretention with Respect to Vassals, but only with Respect to those that have Session in the Circles; and their Design in that, was, to maintain each other from being subjected to the Judgment of a single Person, to prevent the Diminution of the States of the Empire, and the Wars that ordinarily follow the putting the Ban in Execution.

4. So that the College of Princes having never started such a Pretention with regard to Vassals, the King of Sweden who seeks only to maintain the Right of that College, will not make a Grievance of this Matter, nor form a Pretention upon it, the rather because it is not within the Tenour of the Peace of Osnabrug made with Sweden, which had only in View the States of the Empire and the Tranquility of Germany, that might have been disturb'd by the Publication of the Bans against Frederick Elector Palatine, and the Princes and States of the Empire his Adherents.

5. If the Consent of the Electors has been ask'd, 'twas Over-caution, and what the Emperor was not oblig'd to do, for the Reasons alledg'd above; nor ought that to prejudice his Royal Highness, or retard the Execution of the Treaty.

6. 'Tis said likewise, that his Royal Highness ought to be satisfied at present with the Possession of the Montferrat, and to allow Time for publishing the Ban when the Imperial Court shall not have those Suspicions they have now. 'Tis answer'd, that there is a great Difference between managing an Estate and possessing it; between having the Administration, and having the Possession of it; between acting in another's Name, and acting in one's own. 'Tis true his Royal Highness has the Management of the Montferrat, but 'tis only as Administrator, and in the Name of his Imperial Majesty; he is not in Possession, nor does he act in his own Name; and hence it is that the Subjects do not adhere to him without Reserve, as they would did they see themselves irrevocably subjected to his Sovereignty; they still retain some Affection for the Duke of Mantua, seeing he is not depriv'd of the Dutchy; and this breeds great Inconveniences in the Government, and in the political Administration, especially in a Country where the People are so Factious as they are in that.

This Memorial shall be continued in our next.
